THE PRESIDENT'S SUMMER HOME .- All of the inmates of the White House, with servants, horses, and necessary effects, have been removed to the President's cottage at the Soldier's Home for the summer. Upon the President's return to the city this evening, he will proceed immediately to his summer home, which is the largest cottage on the grounds, the same as was formerly occupied by President Lincoln, directly adjoining the Home building.

SPAIN APOLOGIZES .- The Secretary of State has received a reply to his note to the Spanish government, complaining of the boarding of the American whaling schooner by a Spanish cruiser, and the detention of Captain Durham sometime since. The reply assures Mr. Evarts that Spain will make all honorable amends just as soon as an investigation of the facts can be had, and promises that it will spare no effort to prevent a repetition of similar outrages in the future. Mr. Evarts will hand in his bill of damages against Spain when he receives Captain Durham's sworn statement.

THE AWARD FOR PRINTING THE TAX. LIST .- The District Commissioners to-day awarded the contract for printing the taxlist to the proprietors of the Daily Nation, they being the lowest bidders for the work. In making this award the bids of newspa-pers published exclusively on Sunday were excluded under the opinion of acting Attorney General Phillips and the Attorney of the District of Columbia, which was to the effect that such publication would not be legal.

On the same authority it was decided that the law of Congress required the contract to be given to the "lowest bidder" without regard to circulation.

THE BRITISH LEGATION .- Hon. Francis R. Plunkett, transferred by her Britaunic Majesty's government to St. Petersburg as first secretary of legation, has so some time filled the post of secretary of legation at this capital, and in the absence of Sir Edward Thornton is now charge d'affaires ad interim. Mr. Plunkett married a Philadelphia lady some years since in Europe, and is greatly respected for his many excellent qualities. Hon. Power H. Le Poer Trench, the popular second secretary of legation, will, when Mr. Plunkett leaves, become acting charge. By seniority the Hon. Francis J. Pakenham, so long and favorably known here in days past, was entitled to the appointment at St. Petersburg, but being satisfied at Copenhagen and not ambitious of promotion he yielded all claims to the position. Mr. Plunkett will not leave Washington for St. Petersburg until about the 1st of September. Majesty's government to St. Petersburg as Secretary Evarts and Attorney General Devens remain in New York over Sunday. N. S.

NEW YORK, June 30.-President Hayes and party arrived here at 6:30 this morning, on the Fall River line steamer Providence, and after breakfasting on board were trans-ferred by the steamer furnished by the line to the depot of the Pennsylvania railroad, Jersey City, in time to connect with the limited express for Washington. The President expressed himself very much pleased with the trip over Long Island Sound. He said it was the "first good night's rest he had had since leaving Washington." Quite a demon-stration was made at Fort Adams, the torpedo station, and other points in the harbor of Newport, in the way of fireworks, explo-sion of torpedoes, &c., on the departing of the steamer from Newport last night.

HORRORS OF THE WAR. Frightful Bombardments Along the

London, June 30.—Telegrams to the Daily News from various points on the Danube give particulars of frightful bombardments along that river. At Rustchuk the German consulate was destroyed by twenty-four shells, the French by three, and the Austrian consulate was riddled. The military hospital in the Jews quarter received seventy-two hells. They fell everywhere, and no spot can be considered safe. Up to Wednesday the Turks had thrown 2,000 or 3,000 shells into Giurgevo. However, though, the streets here and there are ploughed up and houses bored through, not more than one house in twenty or thirty is seriously injured. At Olenitza, Gen. Ehrenworth, of the 11th infantry, was shot through the shoulder by a Turkish sharp shooter from the other side of the Danube.

Particulars of the Contest.

SPRINGFIELD, MASS., June 30.—The correct time of the race is Harvard 24:36, Yale,

SPRINGFIELD, MASS., June 30.-The Yale-Harvard race, which was postponed yester-day, came off this forenoon, resulting in a victory for the Harvards by a single length. The time was—Harvards, 24:36; Yale, 21:44. The race was an exceedingly close one from the start, there being at no time more than two boat lengths difference in the position of the rival crews, and some of the time less than one. But the superior physique of the Harvards was too much for the finertrained Yale crew, and the wearers of the crimson were not disappointed in their confident expectations that their favorites wou'd win the race. Quite a breeze from the southwest sprang up this morning, making it seem doubtful if crews would be able to pull to day. At about 10 o'clock, however, it veered round to northwest, and the referee decided to start the boats. At 10:40 the crews were in their boats, and at 10:54 the race was started. Harvard's working finely, with 32 strokes to the minute; while Yale spurted off with 36. The latter crew, it was noticed, did not pull with the scientific precision of Harvard, and the latter took the lead passing the first mile a length ahead. The enthusiasm on the bank was immense. Yale had now settled down to work and was striving to close up the gap, while Harvard was working to keep and increase her lead. At the second mile Harvard led by a boat length and a half. Both crews here pulled in toward the west shore to avoid the heavy waves which at this point were very high At the third mile Harvard held her own, while Yale was saving her strength for a final spurt. The fourth and last mile was one of the finest ever witnessed between college crews. Almost side by side the crews sped down the course, each man pulling for sped down the course, each man pulling for his very life. As they approached the finish the enthusiasm of the crowd knew no bounds, and the air was filled with the cheers of the rival colleges. The Harvard men were fairly beside themselves with joy at the prospect of winning the honors, withhold for the prospect of winning the honors, withheld for the last few years, and the Yale men were cheering on their crew, who were making almost superhuman efforts to spuri ahead of their rivals or to make the race at least a dead heat, but it was impossible, and the red crew passed the finish a single length ahead. Both crews then pulled up to the referee's boat to hear his decision; afterwards

THE JUDGE LECTURES A JUSTICE.

During the progress of business in the Police Court this morning Judge Snell took occasion to call the attention of Squire O. S. B. Wall, who was present to defend a client, to the publication of his card, published some weeks ago in a city paper, in which the action of the court was criticised pretty freely and language imputed to him in relation to the subject of POLICE COURT-Judge Snell.

to defend a client, to the publication of his card, published some weeks ago in a city paper, in which the action of the court was criticised pretty freely and lenguage imputed to him in relation to the subject of the cerd which was not used on the occasion referred to. He suggested to the Squire that it he had called upon him (the judge) for information about what was said, instead of listening to hearsay tale bearers, there would have been no occasion for the publication of a card. The facts were that a little three-year old colored boy was brought in June 18th, charged with assault and battery on a large and able bodied colored boy—the warrant being issued by a magistrate. James Blair, the little boy, had been kept in the cell all night, and when called up in the dock he was too smell to look over the rail. The charge looked so abaurd that the court could not refrain from expressing surprise that any magistrate should issue such a warrant, and that he had probably been miniformed as to the facts and circumstances. This was the substance of what was said on that occasion. Squire Wall, in response to what the judge had stated, said he had frequently been approached upon the subject, which had gained some publicity through The Star, and by several p dicemen, who had told him that "Judge Snell had given him the d-l" that morning in court for issuing warrants against infants, &c., &c. The judge replied that he (Wall) would do well to get at the facts before going into the newspapers with such matters. There were some policemen who are tale bearers.
